Care and Use Instructions

Aluminum Pizza Pans and Screens

BEFORE FIRST USE

1. Wash and season the pan. Read the instructions below.

USE

NOTICE: Using metal utensils could damage the finish of the pan.

NOTICE: To prevent damage to the pans, including warping, allow pans to cool before washing or immersing in liquid.

WASHING

NOTICE: Do not use strong alkali based cleaners (lye, soda ash, or trisodium phosphate) or oven cleaners. They can discolor and corrode aluminum, even when used as a weak solution.

NOTICE: Using abrasive cleansers or metal scouring pads could damage the finish of the pan.

1. Vollrath recommends washing by hand, using a solution of hot water and a mild detergent.
2. Pans with burned-on food or deposits can be soaked for up to 30 minutes to help loosen the food.

NOTICE: Do not soak pans for an extended period of time. Extended soaking may cause pitting or corrosion.

3. Always scrub in the direction of the material grain. Only use non-abrasive scrub pads.
4. Rinse with clean, hot water.
5. Immediately dry the pans.
6. Make sure pans are completely dry before storing.
7. For best release performance, periodically re-season the pan.

SEASONING

NOTICE: Unseasoned or improperly seasoned pans do not perform well and can rust.

1. Wash and dry the pan. Refer to the Washing procedure in this document.
2. Apply a small amount of vegetable oil onto a paper towel.
3. Rub the oil onto the entire pan surface.
4. In a conventional oven, bake the pan at 425° F (218° C) for 20 minutes. Do not stack pans in the oven during this process.
5. Remove the pan and allow it to cool to room temperature.
6. Use a paper towel to wipe off excess oil.
7. For best release performance, repeat the seasoning process several times.
